Lessons Learned:

Week 1—Both men and women are gifted to lead

Weeks 2&3—Christ provided us a leadership pattern to follow.

Week 4—Barnabas as an example of quiet, confident leadership.

- A faithful follower of Christ should measure their effectiveness on how many people are farther along in their walk with Christ because of him/her.

The Mandate of the Leader

The Great Commission is Christ's mandate to every believer to influence people for the glory of God by making disciples.

You must have positional availability

Availability is the first requirement of leadership. Giftedness without availability is useless in God's Kingdom.

You must have the proper attitude

Leadership begins with a heart posture of humble adoration and surrender to the One who holds all authority.

You will possess provisional authority

Jesus delegates the same power that raised the dead and calmed the storm to those He sends.

The mandate to lead is universal in scope and individual in application.

- Going is the expectation, not the exception.

The Mission of the Leader

Ultimately the mission of every born-again believer is to join in the grand plan of God to make disciples of all nations.

- Baptizing and teaching are the means, not the goal.

The Method of the Leader

We don’t have to rely on our own personal giftedness, position, personality, or any other methods of man. Jesus’ method is simple. “I will give you My Power and My Presence.”
